RAID MADE ON MASTER'S TREBINE CLUB

Sheriff Walton Spahr and deputies along with about a dozen state detectives landed on what was known as Master's Good Fellowship Club, incorporated under the laws of the state, last Friday night.

The search and seizure papers will be gotten out by Prosecutor Marcus Shoup, who had had many complaints of the club. State liquor enforcement agents armed by proper papers approved by Judge Frank L. Johnson, and served by the Sheriff, resulted in one of the biggest raids in several years.

The officers followed two state dicks that had previously entered the place and made purchases of liquor. The club headquarters was in the old "Midnight Sun" building, a one time night club and gambling house, that was put out of business by county officials.

Ten cases of whisky and 27 cases of beer were confiscated. The club had neither a state nor federal license to sell liquors or beer. It is said slot machines were found but they even had not been licensed under federal law.

Regardless of the fact that some thirty persons were in the place at the time of the raid, only two arrests were made, Elmer Blocher, Dayton, bartender, and Howard Masters, Alpha, were placed under arrest. Robert E. Allen and Richard G. Allen, Dayton, said to have an interest in the place or probable owners, will also face arrest.

Charges of operating without a license will be placed against all of the accused.

The club is said to have about 300 members who are admitted by card and each member can have as many guests as desired. The club was operated on the "honour system," when the money was dropped through a hole in the counter by the one making the purchase. You also made a contribution in another box at the entrance door. The place is said to have been lavishly furnished. The cases against Blocher and Masters were set for Nov. 25 before Judge Johnson in Common Pleas Court.

GREEN LIGHTS

By MARY FAY BRYSON

Our Guests . . . the United Nations

Of course, you who read the papers, know what is happening, day by day in the sessions of the United Nations. But not many citizens are apt to see the handsome and impressive guest house where the representatives of so many nations of the globe, gather to continue their plans for a permanent peace-path for the world.

Flushing Meadows Park, Long Island, N. Y., (the site of the New World's Fair) is level, spacious and beautiful, open to the sun and freshened by almost constant sea breezes.

Far within the park enclosure reached by long, winding drives and walks, guarded by high, metal estate fencing, by dozens of city police and by stalwart marines, may be seen the circular gardens surrounding the former New York City building, which after months of remodeling and refurbishing, is serving as the conference center for the United Nations.

Coincidentally, the broad, handsome building is of flat-roofed, Mediterranean type with white, colonnaded entrance . . . a sort of Americanized-European design which in itself may well be symbolic.

In front of the dignified, ivory-stuccoed structure is a circular grass area of more than 300 feet in diameter. About its edge stand tall white flagpoles at equidistance, each bearing the flag of a nation represented at the conference. Bordered by the paved pathway beneath the flags is a wide bed of marigolds, ageratum and santolinas that contribute their gay multicolors as if to repeat the heraldry of the 51 flags waving above them.

This immense circle of rippling flags pulling on their halyards, each striving for a place in the sun, is not unlike the lands, the peoples, the purposes and hopes which each represents. There is something definitely encouraging in seeing the continuity of the great circle of banners, in watching the unity of action between freedom and restraint . . . even as their representatives contend or agree beyond the threshold of the great conference hall.

The delegates and the various members of their groups, (almost 2,500 persons) enter the conference hall through the main portals. They have a private foyer and lounge, writing and service rooms and dining room. At all times they are shielded from encountering the public. A huge cafeteria, smart with chromium and white clad attendants, serves meals of unexcelled variety, interest and excellence. To be able to choose from eight meat dishes, during a mealtime period in N. Y. is more than exceptional . . . even for foreign guests!

The foyer to which guests are admitted is noticeably low-ceiled, with rough, ivory walls, buff and maroon block floor, soft lights flush with the ceiling and wall.

The design of interior and furnishings is modern with simple lines and pleasing colors providing a tailored, unadorned effect.

The lounge is in eggshell and blue, with blond furniture, offers every comfort and such luxuries as several television receiving sets where activities in the Assembly hall may be seen on the recording screens.

All about are various offices, telephone, telegraph and cable services, publication desk, candy bar. All about too, are eager, foreign faces, quiet or quick syllables of many tongues. The atmosphere is that of a cultured home, not the hustle of the street. There is marked courtesy and consideration among the nations moving at one's elbow. The headresses of the Arabs, the flowing draperies of India, are as proper a part of the picture as the majority who appear as they would on Fifth Avenue or Main Street.

At the several doors to the Assembly Hall are lovely, girl ushers. Whether gracious Chinese or dark eyed Latin, these charming persons are quick and quietly in checking the ticket with the seat. Only 400 guest tickets are issued each session. There must be a reason but not a price, to secure seats.

At first sight of the Assembly Hall, the thought is, "how beautiful, how right, how restrained!" All that is necessary is there. But no ornateness to offend, nothing to clutter.

Eggshell walls, except the one with doors leading to the foyer, which is of rose colored rough tile. The guest seats of rose plush and leather are at the rear of the sloping floor. These are separated from the section for the delegates by a solid, three foot high partition.

The front portion of the hall, level in this part, is provided with 54 long, curving walnut desks, each accom-

Field Work Easier

Than Doing Chores
Power farm machinery has taken a lot of the backaches out of field crop production and has increased the ability of an individual to produce more; but there are many ways to save work around the barns in caring for livestock. It is estimated that 60 per cent of the livestockman's working time is spent around the barns caring for animals. Methods of reducing this kind of labor actually would save more hours a year than finding ways of shortening field work.

A daily 40 foot trip carrying 12 gallons of water or 85 pounds of feed adds up in a year to moving 85-tons of freight one mile. Shortening the chore route by 100 paces a day would save six 10 hour days and 40 miles of walking in one year. Many farms have buildings which were suitable when they were built but are hopelessly obsolete now. Farm homes lack many facilities which would reduce work for women and improve living conditions for the whole family.

War conditions made building repair and remodeling almost impossible, and construction materials still are very scarce. This situation will change so it will be possible for farmers who have made plans for barn and house remodeling to get the work done. Extension bulletin No. 272 contains pictures of dozens of devices which farmers have made to save work in barns, in fields and in homes.

International Live Stock Show

Those in charge of the Exposition report that the early entry is the heaviest in the 46 year history of this event. They predict more than 12,000 head of cattle, horses, sheep and swine may be seen at the "Victory" show.

DRYS WIN ON RECOUNT; NO BEERSALE

The Greene County Board of Elections completed the recount of the wet-dry votes Tuesday following a request of Martin Weimer, Ass. Jones and others.

Charges of irregularity were also reported but no action was taken. In the recount the drys were given the victory with one vote less than reported the night of the election. The protestors posted the required $10 as required by law to pay on the expense of the recount.

The south precinct went wet by a slight margin but the north was heavily dry according to the returns. The official recount was 299 dry and 175 wet, or a majority of one less than was reported by the local election officials. The recount of course is an endorsement of the north precinct election officials.

The Dry Federation filed an election expense of $22.41 with church contributions of $31.81. The expense was largely for advertising and printing. The wets filed no expense account.

Annual Sale of Seals
To Start November 25

Mrs. Paul Halder, president of the Greene County Public Health League, announced this week that the 40th annual sale of Christmas Seals would start November 25 and continue until December 25.

Mrs. Halder pointed out that last year 87 per cent of the money raised from the sale of Christmas Seals in Greene County remained here to help in the local fight against tuberculosis. Early this year almost 4,000 pupils from the sixth grade through high school, teachers and other school personnel were X-rayed, in a determined effort to locate tuberculosis early, when it is curable and before the infection was spread to others. Mrs. Halder stressed "early discovery means early recovery." Early discovery can only be made by X-ray examination.

It is hoped that the public response to the sale of Christmas Seals this year will enable the Health League to continue the X-ray survey as an annual feature in their program of tuberculosis eradication.

This year seals will be sold only by mail, anyone not receiving seals by this means may call Mrs. Halder and they will be sent.

To Conduct Religious Survey at Clifton

A religious census survey of Clifton and community will be made in the next ten days. About ten days ago the sessions of the United Presbyterian and Presbyterian churches of Clifton met and inaugurated a plan to make the survey. Dr. John W. Bickett of the United Presbyterian church was made chairman and Rev. Malcolm Harris of the Presbyterian church assistant. D. C. Bradfute and Carl Corry were made clerks. The session members form the general committee. This committee asked for 25 or more persons from each church to make the survey. The general committees with the census takers met last Monday evening.

The chairman and assistant had secured the material for the survey and D. C. Bradfute, Arthur Reid, Paul Rife and C. C. Eckman mapped out the territory and John Collins and Carl Corry made out the list of teams. Every family in Clifton and contingent territory will be visited. The information on the card will show whether the members of these families are members of the church or not. On Dec. 9 the cards are to be turned into the general committee and will be studied. Later another visitation will be made and a church going day definitely set. The visitation is expected to continue in some form or other through the winter months.

WOULD HANG JOHN L. LEWIS

A southern Congressman is ready to hang John L. Lewis, or do something as bad. It is remarkable this southerner can come out so strong now against the head of the coal miners. It might be well to review some things Mr. Lewis did during the early days of the CIO and FDR union activities.

This indictment came from Congressman Rankin of Mississippi who during the past ten or twelve years has by voice or non recognition given approval to most of the Lewis labor movements. We wonder if he recalls the part the New Deal in Congress took back in the days when FDR and John L. originated the sitdown strike that led to the destruction of thousands of dollars worth of machinery in different Detroit automobile plants. It was in those days when Gov. Murphy sat idly by and worked in unison with both FDR and John L. Later Murphy was given a place on the Supreme Court bench.

We do not recall that Cong. Rankin ever protested the part the Roosevelt New Dealers played two or three different times when the coal miners were called out and industry crippled. Neither did he disapprove publicly the manner in which FDR dropped the coal fights and granted higher wages and later higher price for coal.

Now that the nation faces another coal strike Cong. Rankin arises to attract attention and would do dreadful things. Mean-time President Truman, unfaithful of his name, runs off from the scene of the oncoming miners' war to bask in the Florida sunshine. With many a coal pile down to a few hundred pounds and the mercury dropping below the freezing line, a coal strike will make the nation think when Jack Frost begins to bite fingers and toes. Mr. Truman's ears may have a more burning sensation than he will ever experience from a tanned back under the Florida sun.

The coming year will no doubt be beset by scores of labor strikes for higher pay. With a Republican controlled congress the same element of our society that had little to say under Roosevelt will now be vocal and want to know when the Republicans are going to hang John L. Lewis.

dating tan arm chairs of blond wood and blue leather, for the delegates and some of their assistants.

The side balconies, two stories high, care for the 500 representatives of press, radio and television who carry on their work silently, almost invisibly, back of aquamarine plexiglass that encloses their work units. Aside from the flashes of camera bulbs before the session, there is no evidence of how the news is transmitted to the world. Beneath these publicity booths are many seats reserved for extra advisors and aides to the delegates.

The highest of the wide, three-tiered walnut desks at the front, forms the dais for the President and his aides. The speaker's rostrum and the desks for the translators occupy the second tier while the third serves the verbatim reporters. Secretaries and pages circulate quietly delivering messages, manuscripts and translations during the session.

The focal point of the Assembly Hall is the great map of the world, which occupies most of the high front wall back of the President's dais. This is a polar projection, in blue and gold. The land masses are in "expanded metal" form a six inch bas relief and emphasizes the illusion of depth created by the slightly convex surface of the entire map. At each side, from ceiling to floor, in straight soft folds, hang blue velvet draperies, intensifying the waterblue of the map and providing deeper tone shadows at the corners. The high lighting of the desks of the delegates, sufficient for reading, in no way interferes with the special illumination designed to accent the gold land masses of the world map . . . on which no national boundaries are indicated.

The session begins without ceremony. Promptly when the gavel falls the speaker is announced and without further ado . . . he speaks. It is a quiet solemn occasion. The acoustics of the hall are excellent. Everyone seems to hear and to realize that history is evolving with every sentence. The translations into other languages, immediately following the original speech, command the same attention. Rarely is there any applause. Just a breathless expectancy, a patient waiting not often found in a large audience. Each delegate must realize the weight of choice invested in him, his fundamental obligation to his constituency, which for the good of all must be alert and watchful, perhaps bend with and for others who also are endeavoring to hold all nations at peace . . . for One World. The deliberations of the United Nations at once tests and strengthens one's faith in the possibility and hopes of peace for all the people of this One World.

Treat Calves Against Lice

Using a standard dip by spray and following directions on the container, farmers have found it a good management practice to treat calves against lice at the beginning of winter. If sleeping quarters are infected, a solution of DDT in water may be applied before bedding the calves.

Big Crop of Legume Seeds

Production of 1946 red clover and alfalfa seed is encouraging to farmers who want to start improving their croplands because this year's alfalfa seed production was the greatest on record and red clover seed production has been exceeded in only two previous years.

Agronomists say 1946 Ohio red clover seed production was about 50 per cent greater than the 1945 total. This locally grown seed is better adapted for planting in Ohio than any seed produced elsewhere, and Ohio grown seed does not bring in new weeds or plant diseases. The big 1946 crop of legume seeds was badly needed as reserve stocks were very low.

COLLEGE NEWS

The Men's Bible Reading Contest, which will be held in the First Methodist Church, Sunday evening, November 24, at 7:30, has nine college students as contestants. These students are John Skilling, Conner Merritt, John Stevens, Clarence Beard, Willard Preston, Wendell Cultice, Delbert Stover, and William Ferguson. The College Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Mildred B. Creswell, professor of music, will present special music. By joint cooperation of the College Dramatic Club, under the direction of Professor Carrie M. Rife and the College Chorus directed by Professor Mildred B. Creswell the, annual College Christmas program will be given at the United Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, December 18.

Cedarville College will honor the members of its first football team in fourteen years at a banquet to be held in the College Club Dining Room at 8:30 Tuesday evening, November 26. A speaker of prominence has been invited to give the principal address.

Friends of Rev. Edward C. McCown will be sorry to hear of his death at Pittsburgh on November 14. He was an alumnus of Cedarville College attending the college from 1898 to 1900 and became a prominent figure in the United Presbyterian church. He was pastor of the United Presbyterian Church at Mt. Lebanon, Pa., for thirty nine years during which time his congregation grew to be the largest of his denomination. Due to ill health, he found it necessary to retire in 1943.

Findlay College football team proved to be too strong an outfit for the local Yellow Jackets on the former's gridiron last Saturday. The game was all one-sided as can be judged by the score which was 58 to 0. Up to this time he locals had four wins, four defeats and a tie.

THE FAMILY PRAYER

By Wilbur Weakley

Lord, God of hosts we come to Thee

Humbled and bowed upon bended

knee,

Seeking Thy love and Thy mercy

too,

Asking Thy guidance in all that we do.

Cleanse our heart and our souls

within,

Fill our lives with work for Thee,

Let our lights so shine that others might see.

Bless us dear Lord at the dawn of each day,

Give us courage and strength, we pray;

Courage to face the foes of right,

Strength to overcome with holy might,

Keep us, ever, in the sight of the cross

Lest we forget and all be lost.

Now, in harmony and with one accord

We seek Thy presence through

Christ our Lord. Amen.

TO HAVE GET-TOGETHER

"Take Our Word for It!"

"We've Never Had a Tire that Sold as Fast as the Tire that...
OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES"

"When you've got a good thing, word gets around fast... and word about the new B. F. Goodrich postwar Silvertown is certainly spreading around here.
"Seems everyone wants the tire that Outwears Prewar Tires! That's why it's so hard to keep them in stock—even with the factory's outstanding production.
"B. F. Goodrich users have been telling their friends about the wonderful tire mileage they are getting from the broader, flatter Silvertown tread... how it covers more road surface, hugs the road better, helps prevent skidding and slipping.
"... And they've mentioned the 35% stronger tire body, the result of an entirely new type stronger cord with more cords per ply. All this, you know, means greater safety—better resistance to bruises and road shocks.
"Any way you look at it, the new Silvertown is today's most-for-the-money tire for your car... well worth waiting for."

...To a Bright Future

Little Johnny is the brightest lad in his class—with natural intelligence, a winsome personality and every other quality of the boy "most likely to succeed." He has a bright future ahead of him—IF we keep that future bright for him as our forefathers did for us.

For generations the American people have taken their free enterprise economy as much for granted as they have freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or freedom of religion. Today there are some who do not appreciate those freedoms... who would even favor abandoning private enterprise for varying forms of collectivism. They would strive to create distrust between groups now working toward a higher standard of living. They would tear down rather than build.

Increasing opportunity for the youth of today and tomorrow, requires—not discord and distrust—but mutual faith and eagerness to work together to make cooperation succeed.

With dauntless faith in each other, let us recognize that our citizenship carries duties and responsibilities to match its rights and privileges.

Let us keep on the Right Road. Let us remove all unnecessary restrictions that hamper the opportunity of every boy or girl to achieve and enjoy a bright future.
